Light that lasts well into the night, mornings so bright you look forward to waking up to. Days packed with summer fun are pouncing round the corner. Here begins the biggest inspiration for the summer colour palette: picked from the array of pastel hues that dance across the crisp skyline, down to the colour of the spots that adorn the polka dot dress that's been thirsty for sunlight once again.

There is something about that golden abundance of energy that breathes life into our summer days.

The enticement of topping up on vitamin D and joining family, friends, colleagues. You can find the greatest joy in hosting a BBQ in the garden as an occasion for laughter to unite all your friends in one place. The opportunity to create great memories and voice stories deep into the night. Influencing the colour swatches: 'Peach Kiss', and 'Carnival', as the sun starts to drop below the skyline.

The inspiration from parties, gatherings and celebrations does not stop there, as your mind laps up the images of 'Candyfloss' and 'Soft Gin', those pale pink delights that fill summer festivals with happiness and light hearted fun, when indulging in the abundance of ice creams which is more than encouraged.

Another distinctly defining aspect of summer is that of chatting with friends over a cool beverage in the garden of the local pub, while the fresh evening breeze starts to creep in. Thus, bringing the desires of cold refreshing trips to the pool to escape the constant sunny hugs, just for a couple of hours.
